Man pleads no contest to assault

From our Peninsula bureau

KENAI — A former Homer Boy Scout troop leader has pleaded no contest to six counts of sexual abuse of a minor, Kenai District Attorney Tom Wardell said Monday.

Under the "charge bargain," Jerry W. Lewis, 44, will receive three consecutive eight-year sentences on three unclassified felony counts stemming from the sexual abuse of several boys under the age of 13, Wardell said. Sentences for unclassified felonies are not subject to parole, he said.

According to Wardell, the state remains "free to argue for whatever sentence is appropriate" on the remaining charges. Lewis could get an additional 40 years in prison on those counts, he said.

In exchange for Lewis' change of plea,

Wardell said, the state agreed to drop five similar counts stemming from multiple contacts with some victims.

Lewis was scheduled to go to trial in early December.

By pleading no contest to six felony counts, Lewis agreed to accept verdicts of guilty from the court. The court's finding and the sentence it hands down cannot be appealed. A no contest plea cannot be used as evidence in a civil trial, but under some circumstances, it can be entered in the record of a future criminal proceeding, Wardell said.

Kenai Superior Court Judge Charles Cranston will sentence Lewis Jan. 10.

The charge bargain will spare "young boys in a small town" the emotional trauma of having to testify against Lewis.

Boy Scout leader in Homer accused of molesting boys

By R. L. CHAPPELL
Daily News reporter

A Boy Scout leader in Homer has been arrested and charged with sexually molesting two boys, Homer police said Monday.

Jerry Wayne Lewis, 44, a store clerk who was once named Homer's "Citizen of the Year" will be arraigned later today on two felony counts of sexual abuse of a minor. The charges stem from incidents involving the sexual penetration of two juveniles, police said.

Lewis has been lodged in the Homer Jail and bail has been set at $100,000. Bond could be reduced by Homer Magistrate Anna Creasey at today's hearing.

According to Officer Andy Klamser of the Homer Police Department, additional charges may be filed within the next two weeks.

After talking with past and present members of one local Scout troop, police said they believe that Lewis has been sexually involved with about a dozen boys over the past four or five years.

Some of the incidents occurred during Scout-sanctioned activities, Klamser said.

A complaint last week by the parents of one troop member sparked the investigation, said Sgt. Luther Christopher.

Homer residents describe Lewis as a "respected, popular pillar of the community" who has invested hours of effort in local youth programs.

According to police, Lewis has lived in the area for nine years and been involved in scouting for eight. Although other adults were involved with program, Lewis is generally credited with making the program a successful one.

His first troop was sponsored by the Homer Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"He was our scoutmaster," said church member Jerry Anderson. "He broke off and formed his own troop after a while because he wanted to do a lot of things on Sunday.

"We hated to see him go because the guy was good at working with kids. He was super good. Kids loved him."

Anderson described Lewis as a "middle-aged man, never married, who spends all of his time with boys."

In the late '70s, the Homer Chamber of Commerce honored Lewis for his commitment to youth by naming him the community's "Citizen of the Year."

Lewis served as Scout leader until March, police said, when he stepped down to become a Webelos (Cub Scout) denmaster.

News of Lewis' arrest hit hard in Homer, a town of 3,000 residents.

"I'm sure the overall feeling in the community is one of absolute shock," said one woman who knew Lewis, she asked not to be identified. "I'd say many people are absolutely shocked to death."

"The fact that this may have happened in Homer is tragic," said Dr. Paul Enloe, a physician who has practiced there for more than 10 years. "But it is not indicative of Homer. It didn't happen because of Homer. These kinds of things happen all over."

"I view this with a lot of sadness," Enloe continued. "The kids in our town really don't have a lot. Things like Boy Scouts and church groups have been one of the few alternatives that people have to turn to."
